Subject: potential info for a WHO meeting

I decided that providing you a list of potential agenda topics for a meeting with WHO was better done by sending you these presentations. They have the relevant information that could be discussed at a WHO meeting, at the appropriate level of detail. (of course, the info would have to be updated).

This one is a recent update on the Total Exposure Study (more technical than the others):

2002-06-28 TESBoston.ppt

This one is an overview of our reduced harm evaluation process, focusing on reduced exposure and using the EHC results as an example:

2002-06-28Connolly.ppt

There is one more which is a presentation Urs has given, describing our overall program in pursuit of reduced harm. It conveys the enormity of what we are taking on, including all aspects, e.g., product research, product development quality systems, and the WSA evaluation process. I'll try to send it in a second email, because it is huge and may not go through.
